This application contains claims directed to more than one species of the generic invention. These species are deemed to lack unity of invention because they are not so linked as to form a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1.

The species are as follows:

1. Inventions involving the nucleic acid sequence of Ciz1.
2. Inventions involving the amino acid sequence of Ciz1.
3. Inventions involving antibody to Ciz1 polypeptide.

Applicant is required, in reply to this action, to elect a single species to which the claims shall be restricted if no generic claim is finally held to be allowable. The reply must also identify the claims readable on the elected species, including any claims subsequently added. An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered non-responsive unless accompanied by an election.

Upon the allowance of a generic claim, applicant will be entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which are written in dependent form or otherwise include all the limitations of an allowed generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which are readable upon the elected species. MPEP § 809.02(a).

The claims are deemed to correspond to the species listed above in the following manner:

Species 1, drawn to the nucleic acid sequence of Ciz1, encompasses claims 33, 34 and 43-49. Species 2, drawn to the amino acid sequence of Ciz1, encompasses claims 35 and 36. Species 3, drawn to an antibody to Ciz1 polypeptide, encompasses claims 41 and 42.

The following claim(s) are generic: 30-32, 37-40, 50-54, 57-62, 64 and 65.

The species listed above do not relate to a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1 because, under PCT Rule 13.2, the species lack the same or corresponding special technical features for the following reasons: The Ciz1 polypeptide was known to the prior art, as shown on the ISR (PCT-210) and as such, cannot qualify as a special technical feature shared by the species.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include (i) an election of a species or invention to be examined even though the requirement may be traversed (37 CFR 1.143) and (ii) identification of the claims encompassing the elected invention.

The election of an invention or species may be made with or without traverse. To preserve a right to petition, the election must be made with traverse. If the reply does not distinctly and specifically point out supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election shall be treated as an election without traverse.

Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to James S. Ketter whose telephone number is 571-272-0770. The examiner can normally be reached on Monday-Friday.
